Deborah Murgatroyd

Case Manager, Wigan

Deborah possesses extensive expertise in assessment and report writing tailored to diverse audiences. She excels in conducting physical, cognitive, and perceptual assessments across a broad spectrum of clinical conditions. Her ability to establish rapport and communicate effectively empowers clients facing various communication challenges. Deborah adeptly conveys complex information to enhance understanding and delivers difficult news with empathy, fostering both comprehension and compliance. Employing evidence-based practices, Deborah supports her decision-making processes. She is highly organised and efficient, capable of working under pressure while meeting deadlines. With significant experience in training and supervising staff, she also mentors students pursuing the Driving Assessor training qualification at Chester University. Furthermore, Deborah has a proven track record in innovative practices, project planning and implementation, and contributing to national guidelines for driving assessments.

Deborah became a qualified Occupational Therapist in 1985 and has since gained experience in various clinical areas. She completed a comprehensive basic grade rotation, covering physical medicine, mental health, learning disabilities, and forensic mental health, before specialising in spinal cord injury rehabilitation. While residing in Australia, she worked in the Occupational Health field. Upon her return to the United Kingdom, she became a lecturer in Occupational Therapy, teaching undergraduate courses on the Biomechanical treatment model, rehabilitation treatment model, and stress management modules. In 1993, she established a driving assessment service for the North West of England and has remained active in this specialisation. In this position, she has gathered extensive experience in assessing and reporting on clients with a diverse range of medical conditions, both physical and mental health-related. Effective, concise, accurate, and evidence-based communication is essential in her assessment role, and she takes pride in her ability to tailor her communication style to suit different audiences.
